Stopping your 2007 Ford Escape safely means maintaining the entire brake system and not waiting until something wears out completely or breaks. From where the brake fluid starts in the master cylinder, to the brake line and brake hose it flows through, to the brake caliper or wheel cylinder that transfers the motion from the brake pedal, to the brake pad or brake shoe that applies the pressure, to the brake rotor or brake drum that does the stopping, each piece is important.

The Ford Escape braking system includes all-wheel disc brakes. While disc brakes offer a higher level of braking performance, namely shorter stopping distance, replacing the brake pads in the rear presents a significant challenge vs. replacing the front brake pads. Those are easier to replace due to the ability to turn the steering wheel to access the caliper bolts.
