Manuel youth growing up in working-class and immigrant communities. Based on an original longitudinal study and offering a critical visual methodology of [collaborative seeing], this book shows how a racially, ethnically and linguistically diverse community of young people in Worcester, MA used cameras at different ages (10, 12, 16, 18) to capture the centrality of care in their lives, homes and classrooms. This truly unique book enables children to be the authors of their own narratives and issue an explicit challenge to the dominant deficit and damage-based ways of seeing working-class childhoods.
