Dying every day : Seneca at the court of Nero. by Romm ...

Seneca himself wrote that 'cotidie morimur'—'we die every day.' The obvious literal sense is that every day brings us closer to death; the phrase is also a reference to the Stoic self-preparation for death, the daily meditatio mortis which is supposed to ensure that you are constantly ready for death: 'Death does not enter a great soul so much as return to it.' But dying every day is also the way Romm portrays Seneca's frame of mind under Nero: the concept plays double duty as political ...
