You need Jewish schools for your kids (though Jewish schools tend to draw from a large geographic area, my husband cycled to school from Hendon to Kingsbury and he had classmates from radlett). Families would prefer to live within the eruv (which is an area within which observant Jews can carry or push objects on the Sabbath, usually demarcated by poles and you need council approval to erect it).

But talking to and persuading them to see things from a different pov is like hitting your head against a brick wall. A lot of Zionists are not religious or believe in God. As a liberal jew, I don't believe I am called to live in Israel or I deserve the land. I am quite happy living in the diaspora without the problems of living in Israel.
