On Diwali, each house is lit up with oil lamps, candles and colourful electric lights. Traditionally, the earthen lamps with cotton wicks were lit in most of the houses. However, with the changing modern times, earthen lamps have been replaced by candles in many of the houses. Yet, the concept of the festival of lights remains unchanged.

The reason for this is that the lighting of a diya lamp in honor of Diwali is regarded as forcing light upon darkness, whether it be in the form of evil, tyranny or ignorance. Further, since light represents all things good, a light shining from a diya in every corner is meant to bring hope and prosperity for all mankind.
