seventh infantry regiment and five British paratroopers. Vincent Bramley was a Lance-Corporal and gives a unique and chilling perspective on the horrors of battle. This is a testament to those who bear the brunt of the fighting and a no-holds-barred account of what it is really like to have to do the dirty work of war, where you have to kill or be killed, and sometimes you are pushed over the edge.

The true story of of the bloodiest battle of the Falklands conflict, the Battle of Mount Longdon, as recounted by 12 foot soldiers from the ranks - eight Argentinians and four Britons.;It describes the appalling treatment the Argentinian conscripts suffered at the hands of their own generals; the emotions of soldiers meeting face-to-face ten years after they tried their hardest to kill one another; and the terror of battle as experienced by the ordinary

They Thought They Knew How The Universes Worked^¾ THEY WERE WRONG In the almost two centuries since the discovery of the first inter-universal portal, Arcana has explored scores of other worlds . . . all of them duplicates of their own. Multiple Earths, virgin planets with a twist, because the "explorers" already know where to find all of their vast, untapped natural resources. Worlds beyond worlds, effectively infinite living space and mineral wealth. And in all that time, they have never encountered another intelligent species. No cities, no vast empires, no civilizations and no equivalent of their own dragons, gryphons, spells, and wizards. But all of that is about to change. It seems there is intelligent life elsewhere in the multiverse. Other human intelligent life, with terrifying new weapons and powers of the mind . . . and wizards who go by the strange title of

The author recounts what he claims is his own personal experience of hell, discussing physical pain, the inhabitants of hell, and the kind of life a Christian must lead in order to avoid going there.

The Judgment of Gehenna ('Hell') was the worst oppression that the people of Jerusalem has ever endured, and ever will. Both John the Baptist and Jesus warned the religious leaders in Israel against the coming wrath of God. As fruitless trees, Israel would have been cut from the kingdom of God and be burned in the unquenchable fire of his wrath. During the Roman siege of Jerusalem in 66-70, God took out his revenge on first-century Israel for the blood of all his holy prophets and apostles. Numerous figurative images were used by John and Jesus to describe this judgment: the unquenchable fire, fiery furnace, chaff, weeds, burn, outer darkness, and more. Unfortunately throughout history the church has interpreted these images in a literal sense and the hell-doctrine was built from it. In 'The Judgment of Gehenna' the hell-scriptures are looked at in the context that they actually describe a nation that not only murdered God's servants but also had his Son crucified. Yet, 40 years later worms devoured the flesh of the fallen while Jerusalem and the temple was burned to the ground. With that, the wrath of God was fulfilled.

This idea first came from watching and hearing televangelists on Christian broadcasts after I had been saved. I was blessed to have a pastor and a church family that embraced me and poured themselves into my life with teachings and testimonies that enhanced my walk with Jesus immensely. I often wondered who were there for the people who received Jesus over the television waves or in large convention centers after the message ended. I'm sure some had pamphlets and flyers to hand out, but in many cases, that is not enough. My book Now That I Am Saved, Now What? is designed to give the reader a quick synopsis and revelation of what you can expect and what is expected from a loving good God who is no respecter of persons. From the cover illustration, you can ascertain that a man is overboard and the men of God have thrown him a life preserver. He is saved, but he seems to be asking, "Now what?" They are all pleased he is saved, but no one seems willing to pull him into the safety of the ship. Jesus is at the helm and will always be the author and finisher of our faith if we trust him fully and follow his lead through his Word.
